The Story of Bole:

[Taken from Wikipedia] Bole or Bo Le was also known as Sun Yang. He was at the service of the Duke Mu of Qin and was renowned as a famous judge of horses due to his extraordinary understanding of the creatures. Bole was also the legendary inventor of equine physiognomy, or the assessment of a horse's qualities from its physical appearance. By studying its body, bone structure, and the shape and size of other body parts, Bole was able to assess the horse's hidden capacities with an extreme level of accuracy that lesser judges of horses would have overlooked. In Chinese, the word Bole has come to figuratively refer to a good judge of talent--especially hidden or difficult to find talent.
